A historic declaration of faith, the London Baptist Confession of Faith of 1689 is also known as the Second London Baptist Confession. It outlines critical Reformed doctrines in 32 chapters and is based on doctrine contained in the similar Savoy and Westminster confessions. The Baptist confession was assembled by "Elders and Brethren of many Congregations of Christians (Baptized upon profession of their faith) in London and the Country." Despite frequently being labeled "The 1689 Confession" due to its adoption by ministers in the year 1689, the confession was originally printed in 1677.
